

Master Class Customer reviews 17th November 2022

Hi Simon

I found the masterclass yesterday to be quite possibly the most inspiring and practically informative training event I've ever been to. The combination of hands-on experience and data gathered from the houses over a long period of time were so helpful. The cherries on top were the warm hospitality and 'ask any question' informality. It has given me new urgency to make sure our project happens sooner rather than later. Please feel free to quote me on this!

Dear Simon,

Having attended the Practicalities of Delivering a Zero Carbon Home day course at Hockerton I cannot recommend it too strongly to anyone interested in energy efficient building and the practical means by which we can optimise energy use and reduce our dependance on traditionally generated energy sources. Of equal interest are the passive means we can build into our homes to conserve energy and provide comfortable and pleasing living conditions.

The day was extremely well run and led by Simon Tilley and those attending were received with great hospitality. The discussions which arose throughout the course of the day were lively and informative and it is clear that this pioneering project has a great deal to offer to all those who are concerned with the real and significant problems which now confront us as a species and which are becoming more urgent by the day.

The team at Hockerton are to be congratulated on their vision in confronting the issues which now confront us all. It is encouraging to learn that with imagination and commitment we can maintain our present standards by adopting fresh approaches and new techniques.

Dear Simon,

Thank you for putting the event on, it was a lovely informal day out and good to speak with like-minded people.

I will certainly be interested in any other events you put on.

Best wishes

Thank you Simon,

It was a long drive home but so totally worth it!

The masterclass was inspiring. Having just got planning permission I feel that I'm now armed with a great deal of real life tried and tested knowledge and am feeling much more confident about talking to builders and architects about what we want to achieve.

I've been lost in a sea of information overload but Hockerton's real life example of how to achieve net zero without it costing the earth (financially and literally) is priceless.

Thank you to Simon and the team for a fantastically informative day with great food and company too.

I'll definitely download the sheets and I'll send you our drawing for a bit of feedback if i may.

Many thanks,

Louise Tilt
